Our Relations With Reds

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A news report of the day brings sharply into focus one of the major questions that face the people of the United States today. It is hoped that when President Lyndon B. Johnson has firmly settled into his office, he will make an effort to acquaint the American people with his thoughts on the matter. The question is the overall relationship of this nation and all the free world with the communist bloc of nations.

The issue arises with a statement by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law that U.S.-Soviet rela-

improving" under John F. Kennedy. Alexel Adzhubei, editor of the official Soviet newspaper, Izvestia, added that "I want to hope that President Johnson will continue the line of the late President Kennedy." First of all, there are those who will immediately maintain that this is proof of the "defeatist" or "no win" policy of the past Washington administration in its dealings on an international scale. In the opinion of these people, the extreme right political group of our nation, if things are at all to the liking of communism, they are wrong.

Their attitude has been cleverly sold and adherents to their way of thinking have been growing in this nation. They are guilty of grave and serious generalizations but not all people stop to think about the specifics that are involved. Not all people will stop to ask what are the assets and liabilities of peaceful relationships with the Soviet Union and her satellites.

Such, however, is the kind of consideration the question must have if this nation is to achieve any sort of cohesiveness in its foreign affairs. It is the kind of consideration that is essential, in fact, if we are to have any kind of foreign policy, at all.

The old cliche of "soft on communism" is not going to be the foundation on which the future greatness of this nation is built: nor will it be the means by which we achieve a final victory over communism. Basically, what we must decide is how we intend to live with communism, if at all, and what we hope the world situation eventually turns out to be. We either are going to live in the same world with communism for the moment or we are going to destroy it. It is highly doubtful that any intelligent people of our nation really believe there is no wisdom in living with communism at the moment. This, however, does not mean what some people might say it means.

It does not mean that we approve of communism. It simply means that we recognize it as a political force in the world today and something that has to be faced just as we face the many other unpleasant things that come our way in the course of our lifetime. If we did not intend to live in the same world with communism, then we might as well start the shooting and get things over with right away. It is doubtful that time would be of much advantage to us if this were the course of action to which we had dedicated ourselves. It would be little better or worse to start a nuclear war today than it would be six or eight months or a year from now.

Thus, when we say that we intend to live with communism, we are simply saying that we do not intend to forcefully remove the system from the face of the earth. We do not intend to start a war. Then, the question comes down to how we do deal with this menace to our way of life and what we anticipate over a period of many years.

If we have the courage of our convictions, we will proceed from the assumption -the knowledge, rather-that communism has within it the seeds of its own destruction. It is a system based on the restriction of the human being and the curtailment of many of the instinctive emotions that are a part of each and every individual.

Toward the end of the destruction of communism, we should do those things that

capitalize upon the weaknesses of our enemy. We should expose to the world the advantages of our way of life while underscoring the real nature of communism. If we are right in what we believe, if we truly do have a superior way of life, then we can effectively turn the course of events in our favor. We can expect that the time will come when the freedom-loving nature of mankind itself will rise up and demand a place in the scheme of things even behind the Iron Curtain. This may come about slowly but come it will.

The fact that what we might do toward this end is considered agreeable from the Soviet point of view is not of primary consideration. The primary question is whether we are right or wrong and we would be foolhardy to let the communists decide this for us by whatever position they take.

Enforcement Difficult

Not Losing Them All

The recent events will surely stir Congress to extraordinary efforts to establish better controls over private possession of firearms. And certainly the nation is prepared to go to great lengths to prevent the arming of malevolent and irresponsible

Nothing is more urgently needed. But effective control will be difficult.

Currently an estimated 50 million lethal weapons are in private hands. It can be expected that people of good will will readily cooperate in any plan for registration and control. But the criminal, the deranged and the irresponsible, who are the very ones against whom an arms control act would be directed, will be the ones most apt to evade the law.

Much can be sald for more exacting conditions for ownership, requiring more effective proof of character. Traceable certificates of ownership and stringent laws governing private resale of weapons also offer hope for improvement.

But no law would be complete without tight restriction on the sale of ammunition. Unloaded weapons are not dangerous. It is the ammunition that makes them so.

It would be highly desireable to confine the sale of ammunition to fewer and more highly supervised outlets; to bar sale to all who cannot prove lawful ownership of a gun, and to sell in limited quantities.

It would also be constructive to have uniform weapons control laws coupled with close cooperation between state and federal enforcement agents.

Such efforts could not in any calculable time clear the whole situation but they would be helpful steps.

"The Only Thing Changed Around Here Is The Name On The Door!"

DREW PEARSON Pressure Killed Gun Legislation

WASHINGTON - If hate groups had not pressured Congress against passage of an Arms Registration Act, President Kennedy might still be alive today.

Early in 1962, Rep. Victor Anfuso, the Brooklyn Democrat, introduced a bill requiring private individuals to register firearms with the FBI. Anfuso's bill was aimed at preventing juvenile delinquency, combating the increasing crime wave in big cities, and at the "Minutemen." The Minutemen are self-appointed volunteers or "grassroots guerillas." chiefly located in California, who claimed at one time that the United States was in grave danger of invasion by Chinese troops from Mexico. They also claimed that 800 of their members in Los Angeles have their own machine guns and that each has a rifle with 100 rounds of ammunition.

So when Anfuso introduced his arms registration bill there was a storm of criticism from the right wing and a flood of letters to Congress. It's significant that part of the opposition came from Dallas where Dan Smoot, the former booster of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, conducts a rightwing radio program and sends a newsletter to gullible readers.

Another opponent was Merso-called "National Econom- berg, he said: "I don't know ic Council" and once described by Justice Robert Jackson as well known for his pro-fascist leanings.

had in opposing the registering of firearms with the FBI is not known. At any rate, the pressure on Congress was so great that the Anfuso bill did not pass.

소 소 ☆ John F. Kennedy seemed to have a strange premonition that he would not last have to be confined to one out his term.

A little over a year ago when Justice Felix Frankfurter retired from the Supreme Court, Kennedy had soul-searching conversation with Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg to whom he offered Frankfurter's place on the Supreme Court. Goldberg had been doing a masterful job as secretary of labor. As a former labor attorney, he had the confidence of labor unions and was able to get them to settle serious labor difficulties which previously had disrupted the nation. It was obvious that Kennedy hated to lose him. "It's like cutting off my right arm to have you go.'

Our Relations With Reds

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A news report of the day brings sharply into focus one of the major questions that face the people of the United States today. It is hoped that when President Lyndon B. Johnson has firmly settled into his office, he will make an effort to acquaint the American people with his thoughts on the matter. The question is the overall relationship of this nation and all the free world with the communist bloc of nations.

The issue arises with a statement by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law that U.S.-Soviet relations "were constantly improving" under John F. Kennedy. Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the official Soviet newspaper, Izvestia, added that "I want to hope that President Johnson will continue the line of the late President Kennedy." First of all, there are those who will immediately maintain that this is proof of the "defeatist" or "no win" policy of the past Washington administration in its dealings on an international scale. In the opinion of these people, the extreme right political group of our nation, if things are at all to the liking of communism, they are wrong.

Denunciation Excuse

Their attitude has been cleverly sold and adherents to their way of thinking have been growing in this nation. They are guilty of grave and serious generalizations but not all people stop to think about the specifics that are involved. Not all people will stop to ask what are the assets and liabilities of peaceful relationships with the Soviet Union and her satellites.

Such, however, is the kind of consideration the question must have if this nation is to achieve any sort of cohesiveness in its foreign affairs. It is the kind of consideration that is essential, in fact, if we are to have any kind of foreign policy, at all.

The old cliche of "soft on communism" is not going to be the foundation on which the future greatness of this nation is built; nor will it be the means by which we achieve a final victory over communism. Basically, what we must decide is how we intend to live with communism, if at all, and what we hope the world situation eventually turns out to be. We either are going to live in the same world with communism for the moment or we are going to destroy it. It is highly doubtful that any intelligent people of our nation really believe there is no wisdom in living with communism at the moment. This, however, does not mean what some people might say it means.

It does not mean that we approve of communism. It simply means that we recognize it as a political force in the world today and something that has to be faced just as we face the many other unpleasant things that come our way in the course of our lifetime. If we did not intend to live in the same world with communism, then we might as well start the shooting and get things over with right away. It is doubtful that time would be of much advantage to us if this were the course of action to which we had dedicated ourselves. It would be little better or worse to start a nuclear war today than it would be six or eight months or a year from now.

Thus, when we say that we intend to live with communism, we are simply saying that we do not intend to forcefully remove the system from the face of the earth. We do not intend to start a war. Then, the question comes down to how we do deal with this menace to our way of life and what we anticipate over a period of many years.

If we have the courage of our convictions, we will proceed from the assumption -the knowledge, rather-that communism has within it the seeds of its own destruction. It is a system based on the restriction of the human being and the curtailment of many of the instinctive emotions that are a part of each and every individual.

Toward the end of the destruction of communism, we should do those things that

capitalize upon the weaknesses of our enemy. We should expose to the world the advantages of our way of life while underscoring the real nature of communism. If we are right in what we believe, if we truly do have a superior way of life, then we can effectively turn the course of events in our favor. We can expect that the time will come when the freedom-loving nature of mankind itself will rise up and demand a place in the scheme of things even behind the Iron Curtain. This may come about slowly but come it will.

The fact that what we might do toward this end is considered agreeable from the Soviet point of view is not of primary consideration. The primary question is whether we are right or wrong and we would be foolhardy to let the communists decide this for us by whatever position they take.

"The Only Thing Changed Around Here Is The Name On The Door!"

DREW PEARSON Pressure Killed Gun Legislation

WASHINGTON — If hate groups had not pressured Congress against passage of President Kennedy might still be alive today.

Early in 1962, Rep. Victor Anfuso, the Brooklyn Democrat, introduced a bill requiring private individuals to register firearms with the FBI. Anfuso's bill was aimed at preventing juvenile delinquency, combating the increasing crime wave in big cities, and at the "Minutemen." The Minutemen are self-appointed volunteers or "grassroots guerillas," chiefly located in California, who claimed at one time that United States was in grave danger of invasion by Chinese troops from Mexico. They also claimed that 800 of their members in Los Angeles have their own machine guns and that each has a rifle with 100 rounds of ammunition.

So when Anfuso introduced his arms registration bill there was a storm of criticism from the right wing and a flood of letters to Congress. It's significant that part of the opposition came from Dallas where Dan Smoot, the former booster of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, conducts a rightwing raprogram and sends a newsletter to gullible readers.

Another opponent was Merwin K. Hart, president of the so-called "National Economic Council" and once described by Justice Robert Jackson as well known for his pro-fascist leanings.

What motive, ulterior or had in opposing the register-ing of firearms with the FBI is not known. At any Arms Registration Act, rate, the pressure on Congress was so great that the Anfuso bill did not pass.

It was often asked of the late President Kennedy by political opportunists why he permitted a Kremlin toehold off the coast of Florida and why we are making no headway throughout South America even in spite of foreign aid giveaways. This was asked as a question in a deliberate effort to perpetrate a fraud upon the people of this nation.

It is generally assumed that a question is merely the asking of an explanation. The above question, however, is not a question but a statement of supposed fact. The late President was once said to have remarked at a press conference that questions asked were more in the nature of speeches.

As to a Kremlin toehold in Cuba, this is a subject in itself but it can be said in passing that it is incorrect to say that this country has permitted the situation. More to the point at the moment is the second so-called question as to our situation throughout Latin America. Is it really a fact that we are losing there to the threat of communism?

Huxley was a great writer, a satyrist par excellence who deeply moved the American soul, especially with his unforgettable "Brave New World." He cut deep-and his slashing attacks at the frivolous paved the way for sounder concepts. Fritz Reiner was among the leaders of his age in music, a symphonic conductor who left America much richer in terms of music appreciation. He played his or- prosperity." chestras with the touch of a great organist. Reiner's years with the Metropolitan were rich ones for America. Principal credit must be given him later when he took hold of the Chicago symphony orchestra. He brought it to a high peak of expression, establishing it as a premier musical organization. Reiner retired only a year ago at the age of 72, but Chicago will live long on his musical legacy.

Galli-Curci, brilliant young European singer, took America by storm almost a generation ago. We must say, the affection was mutual. Her greatest years were here and she preferred to call America home.

Fortunately Galli-Curci's great voice has been preserved and her wonderful singing will be a source of joy and satisfaction through all the future. As much can be said for the writings of

Johnson Leads With Strong Hand

Johnson aspired to the Democratic nomination for president in 1960 as the "Mr. Can Do" of the United States Senate. He does not have much time to "can do" before the next Democratic national convention meets. Yet he has no choice but to bring to bear his powerful drive, his legislative skills and his acute sense of the uses of power upon the urgent problem of impressing the country. He will not be free, as was the young John Kennedy, to campaign intensively while others are bearing the executive responsibil-

Thanks largely to her efforts, a Council on Aging was established in 1955, headed by a board of prominent citizens. It operates on an annual budget of just $23,000 provided in part by the United Fund, and has a staff of just two full-time employees, one part-time worker, and volunteers. Many of this council's activities can be found in other cities. But the following features are noteworthy and worthy of adoption in communities everywhere.

Everegreen Clubs: There are 17 social clubs located throughout the city for folks 55 years of age and over, ranging in size from 35 to to 200 members. They meet weekly or bi-weekly from 10 in the morning to three in the afternoon in space donated by churches, clubs, and other groups.

This chain is unique in that the clubs bear the same name and are under central direction. Members feel a camaraderie based on common club membership. As in the case of fraternities, members know where the other chapters are located and there is much visiting back and forth.

Telephone Reassurance. Elders living alone may fill out a form requesting a phone call at a certain time each day and advising whom to notify in case of an emergency. The council then recruits volunteers to make these calls, which not only tend to reassure the older person but gives him something to look forward to and a feeling that someone cares.

Friendly Visiting. All Copyright, 1963, King Features Synd, Inc. nursing homes in Scattle may advise the council which of their elderly patients have a particular need for visitors. Then the Council recruits volunteers and assigns patients for them to visit once a week on a regular schedule. This not only benefits patients who eagerly await these visits, but gives a sense of purpose to the volunteers, most of whom are themselves senior citizens.

Do not mix another drink with your usual brand of liquor until you read about this remarkable new Canadian Here's an elegant Canadian whisky that may well make you forget all about using "the usual" - when mixing your favorite drinks.

1. Smoother-tasting than any whiskey on the market. Compare Windsor Canadian with your regular brand. Make two highballs. Make one with "the usual," the other with Windsor. Notice how much smoother Windsor is. 2. Fine tasting, too. Windsor Canadian has all the traditional mellow flavor and elegant fine taste of a great Canadian.

3.If you're used to paying an "imported mice," expect to be sarprised. For the price of Windsor is much, much less... and right in line with the leading (and so-called popular-priced) whiskeys.

4. Windsor Canadian is proudly presented in this country by National Distillers, your added assurance that Windsor is truly superior.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft-So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)-After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon-becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine.

The new miracle substanceknown medically as dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate-works in a completely different way. It is not n laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

about the films coming next at Lincoln's Cooper Foundation Theatres. I hope you'll find these comments helpful.

Next at the Stuart . . .

"TAKE HER, SHE'S MINE"

A smash hit on Broadway, "Take Her, She's Mine" stars James Stewart and Sandra Dee in the film version. A fast paced comedy, the picture deals lightly with raising teenage daughters as Sandra goes off to college. James Stewart as the harried, confused, but laving father is in top form. Bonuses in the film include spectacular color onlocation shots in Paris—and stunning wordrobes worn by Miss Dee and co-star Audrey Meadows. Good fun for the family.

> at the Nebraska . . "VERTIGO" & "TO CATCH A THIEF"

Two of Alfred Hitchcock's best thrillers return to the Nebraska with four of the really great stars— Cary Grant and Grace Kelly in "To Catch A Thief" and James Stewart and Kim Novak in "Vertigo." Both are in color, both loaded with suspense. Worth seeing for the second.(or third!) time!

Mt. Etna Eruption Pouring Out Lava

Catania, Sierly 49- Lava poured out of Mt. Etna in a new eruption Monday and smoke rose from several longinactive craters.

The lava came from a cratter which opened nearly 10 years ago on the northeast side of the volcano, several hundred feet below the 10,758foot-high central cone.

There was no immediate danger to villages, all miles away. The smoke from the old craters, farther down the 466-2377 mountain, was the first sign of activity there in more than a century.

Morning Wedding

Miss Patricia Kay Clinch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clinch, became the bride of Terry L. Jones, son of Mrs. Verne Barney and of the late Russell Jones, on Saturday, Nov. 30. The ceremony was solemnized at 10 of Nebraska o'clock in the morning at Blessed Sacrament Church by the Rev. Leonard Kalin, and Miss Kathy Glynn, organist, played the wedding music. Miss Glynn also accompanied the bride's sister. Miss Mary Ann Clinch, who was the vocal soloist.

Serving his brother as best man was Tom Jones of Minneapolis, and seating the guests were Dr. John M. Mc-Elroy, Grand Island; and Robert Finley.

Peau de soie in traditional white was chosen by the bride for her wedding gown. Floral appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace patterned the front of the bodice, which was designed with long, fitted sleeves, and the lace continued into the slim skirt, and was repeated on the court train which extended to chapel length. Her silk illusion veil was held by a coronet of jeweled lace, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Morning Wedding

Miss Patricia Kay Clinch, John A. Clinch, became the bride of Terry L. Jones, son of Mrs. Verne Barney and of the late Russell Jones, on Saturday, Nov. 30. The ceremony was solemnized at 10 o'clock in the morning at Blessed Sacrament Church by the Rev. Leonard Kalin, and Miss Kathy Glynn, organist, played the wedding music. Miss Glynn also accompanied the bride's sister, Miss Mary Ann Clinch, who was the vocal soloist.

Mrs. Gerhard Gertschitz of Denver, as her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Gloria Clinch, also a sister of the bride, and Mrs. John E. Clinch, wore slim-skirted frocks of silk crepe in the Titian blue tone. Coronets of rhinestones completed their ensembles, and each carried a single white chrysanthemum.

Serving his brother as best man was Tom Jones of Minneapolis, and seating the guests were Dr. John M. Mc-Elroy, Grand Island; and Robert Finley.

Peau de soie in traditional white was chosen by the bride for her wedding gown. Floral appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace patterned the front of the bodice, which was designed with a high, squared neckline and long, fitted sleeves, and the lace continued into the slim skirt, and was repeated on the court train which extended to chapel length. Her silk illusion veil was held by a coronet of jeweled lace, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

The declarer can sometimes make his contract by Dear. Abby establishing a position late in the play where an opponent on lead' must give him a trick which he would otherwise have had to lose.

However, in attempting to establish a winning endplay position, the declarer must do everything possible to leave the opponents no means of escape, and he should therefore plan his play with this in mind.

Here is a case where declarer fell short of his goal in attempting an endplay. He took the king of spades with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and then put West ! for it. She says a lot of girls in the lead with a spade, thus do it. Her boy friend said if forcing West to return a diamond or a club.

The attempted endplay was premature. What declarer should have done after drawing two rounds of trumps was lead a diamond from dummy and finesse the jack.

With the finesse succeeding, he could eash the ace of diamonds and then exit with a spade. This play would have succeeded, because West would have been forced to return a club or else con-

Declarer can therefore assume, if the diamond finesse loses to the king, that East has the ace of clubs, and for this reason he should play the diamonds before making an attempt to endplay West. He cannot afford to play spades ahead of diamonds because he does not yet have West tied up in a knot.

times make his contract by Dear, Abby establishing a position late in the play where an opponent on lead must give him a trick which he would otherwise have had to lose.

However, in attempting to establish a winning endplay position, the declarer must do everything possible to leave the opponents no means of escape, and he should therefore plan his play with this in mind.

Here is a case where declarer fell short of his goal in attempting an endplay. He took the king of spades with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and then put West in the lead with a spade, thus forcing West to return a diamond or a club.

club, South would have made cede a ruff and discard; in the contract, but he returned either case, South would have the eight of diamonds instead. This apparently favorable lead did not help much, because East played the nine and the defenders eventually scored two clubs and a diamond to defeat the contract one trick.

The attempted endplay was premature. What declarer should have done after drawing two rounds of trumps was lead a diamond from dummy and finesse the jack.

With the finesse succeeding, he could cash the ace the diamonds before making of diamonds and then exit an attempt to endplay West. with a spade. This play would He cannot afford to play have succeeded, because spades ahead of diamonds to return a club or else con- West tied up in a knot.

of West's pass originally, that West could hardly have both the king of diamonds and ace of clubs in addition to his spade suit; presumably he would have opened the bidding in such case.

Declarer can therefore assume, if the diamond finesse loses to the king, that East has the ace of clubs, and for this reason he should play West would have been forced because he does not yet have

DEAR ABBY: A friend I grew up with, but haven't seen in years, called me long distance and said she was coming to this city to visit for a few days. I told her I'd be glad to see her, but I didn't have room enough in my apartment to have her stay with us. She said, "Oh, the floor will be good enough for me." I told her I wouldn't think of it, but she argued and argued and I couldn't talk her out of it. Now my husband is having a fit, and says he can't have a woman sleeping on the floor while he is sleeping a bed. He says he'll go stay with friends and give HER his bed. Abby, I can't let him do that. I am so mad at myself for letting her win the argument. What should I do when she comes?

KICKING MYSELF DEAR KICKING: Beg, borrow, or rent a mattress or sleeping bag and let her sleep on the floor. She's 90% brass and won't feel a thing!

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I guess I should know when I am sick and when I am not sick. My mother calls me a "little hypochondriac." Whenever I complain about a headache or a pain in the leg or the arms she says it's only growing pains and if I didn't pay so much attention to myself I wouldn't notice them. I want to see a doctor but every time I mention it, my mother says, "Oh, it's nothing, you don't need a doctor." How can I convince my mother that I do? NO HYPOCHONDRIAC DEAR NO: If you really think you need to see a doctor, ask you teacher or school nurse to persuade your mother. Perhaps you have complained too much in the past about minor ailments to be taken seriously now. But don't ignore your pains.

At a 7:30 o'clock evening service solemnized on Sunday, Nov. 17, Miss Judith Ann Kollman, daughter of Mrs. Joyce Kollman, became the bride of Ronald Emery Converse, son of E. V. Converse. Felt is wonderful to work with for several reasons. It is 72 inches wide, a nonwoven fabric without grain, and it comes in a glorious range of colors. The edges don't have to be finished because they don't ravel. Sewing on felt is simple; you use a medium to long stitch (8-10 per inch), a light tension and mercerized cotton thread.

To Make:

1. Cut two rectangular pieces of felt with pinking shears, 16 inches long and 12 inches wide. The pinking shears are used for decora-

2. Place one felt piece flat on a table. Place your scissors and shears, tape measure, thimble and other necessary supplies in position and mark the locatoon for the little protective covers, as illustrated. Include a spot for needles and pins.

3. Cut covers for each utensil, using pinking shears for the decorative edge.

4. On one piece of felt, made in gay colored felt. stitch all covers in place, as shown. Next take some sors and shears, too often soutache braid and stitch great volume of mail rethrown around carelessly, around the edge of each ceived daily, she cannot and it is a good hiding rectangle of felt. two rectangles wrong sides together, and stitch down the center, thus holding both pieces together. Cut two pieces of buchram to fit each half and slip between felt at each side. Cut handles and pin in place. 5. Stitch around entire outside edge and the scissors case is completed.

Make your case in varied colors such as shocking pink or turquoise, the covers for utensils in white, and soutache braid in white. To use up leftover scraps, make eyeglass and compact cases by measuring the size of the article, cutting two pieces of felt with pinking shears and then stitching along the edge, leaving one end open. Then decorate in braid or embroider by hand or with the zigzag machine. Though inexpensive, the case will be greatly appreciated.

Dickey received a fouryear contract at $16,000 a year and was given authority to pick his staff. He said he will hire six assistants but is in no hurry to select them. Dickey succeeds Jim Mc-Donald, who was fired Sunday and immediately named assistant to Athletic Director Bob Woodruff. McDonald held the job six months and carved out a 5.5 record this season. ### Dickey Named To Tennessee Coaching Post

Knoxville, Tenn. (A) -Tennessee hired Douglas Dickey, slot-T with variations.

This signaled the end of the old single wing offense with which the late Gen. Robert R. Neyland built Tennessee into a national football power before stepping aside as head coach in 1952.

Dickey received a fouryear contract at $16,000 a year and was given authority to pick his staff. He said he will hire six assistants but is in no hurry to select them. Dickey succeeds Jim Mc Donald, who was fired Sunday and immediately named assistant to Athletic Director Bob Woodruff. McDonald held the job six months and carved out a 5-5 record this season. He had been hired last June to succeed Bowden Wyatt, who was dismissed.

Mostly Weak

Chicago (P)— The grain futures market closed mostly weak Monday but with a few strong spots in wheat, oats and soybeans on the Board of Trade.

December wheal mustered a fairly active rally in late transactions and ran its gains to 2½ cents a bushel. The September contract was the only gainer in the soybean pit but all oats deliveries finished ahead.

Brokers credited a good deal of the late support for December wheat to commercial buying which they said appeared to be for export accounts, either hedge lifting or towards filling an order for 3.8 million bushels from Pakistan. The transp also pulled out a moderate volume of short covering.

Hedge selling continued to be the weakening factor in corn. Scattered liquidation in soybeans exposed a very thin commercial demand.
